Use your Periodic Table to answer this question. Write the name of an element which has three electrons in its outer shell.